

Pearl City Peninsula solar farm built by Forest City in 2012

Forest City has built six “utility-scale” solar farms that power the Hawaiian Electric Company/Navy grid, says Wallenstrom. “We’re in the process of developing another large one in partnership with Hanwah Q CELLS, a large Korean company.” When completed, the new Kunia solar farm will produce 9 megawatts of energy.

“We have taken the lessons that we have learned in building utility-scale solar projects and applied those lessons
